Providing Specific Benefits to Fit Your Needs

About AOAC's Sustaining Member Organization

Sustaining Member Organizations (SMO) provide financial support for AOAC INTERNATIONAL programs and services, in return for a specific package of benefits. SMOs support analytical methods validation programs, which provide expert, objective third-party oversight in the development and validation of methods while ensuring the scientific integrity of the resulting methods. Sustaining Membership is also an investment in laboratory quality - including the development of laboratory accreditation guidelines and the professional development of scientists.
