The primary objective of AOAC INTERNATIONAL is to obtain, improve, develop, test, and adopt precise, accurate, and sensitive methods for analysis of foods, vitamins, food additives, pesticides, drugs, cosmetics, plants, feeds, fertilizers, hazardous substances, air, water, and any other products, substances, or phenomena affecting the public health and safety, the economic protection of the consumer, or the protection of the quality of the environment; to promote uniformity and reliability in the statement of analytical results; to promote, conduct, and encourage research in the analytical sciences related to foods, drugs, agriculture, the environment, and regulatory control of commodities in these fields; and to afford opportunity for the discussion of matters of interest to scientists engaged in relevant pursuits.

Membership.—Membership in AOAC INTERNATIONAL is open to all interested persons worldwide. Sustaining memberships are available to any government agency, private company, or association interested in supporting an independent methods validation program.

The Journal

The Journal of AOAC INTERNATIONAL [ISSN 1060-3271 (print), ISSN 1944-7922 (digital)] is published bimonthly by AOAC INTERNATIONAL, 2275 Research Blvd, Suite 300, Rockville, MD 20850, USA. Each volume (1 calendar year) will contain about 1800 pages.

Scope of the Journal

The Journal of AOAC INTERNATIONAL publishes refereed papers and reviews in the fields of chemical, biological and toxicological analytical analytical chemistry for the purpose of showcasing the most precise, accurate and sensitive methods for analysis of foods, food additives, supplements and contaminants, cosmetics, drugs, toxins, hazardous substances, pesticides, feeds, fertilizers and the environment available at that point in time. The scope of the Journal includes unpublished original research describing new analytical methods, techniques and applications; improved approaches to sampling, both in the field and the laboratory; better methods of preparing samples for analysis; collaborative studies substantiating the performance of a given method; statistical techniques for evaluating data. The Journal will also publish other articles of general interest to its audience, e.g., technical communications; cautionary notes; comments on techniques, apparatus, and reagents.

The Journal does not publish the use of routine analytical methods or straightforward extension of these methods to new sample matrices unless new developments are described which can be demonstrated to give very clear and quantifiable advantages over existing methods.

Reviews are normally written by prior agreement with the editors. To ensure review articles are sufficiently broad in scope to appeal to a wide cross-section of the Journal’s readership, but specific enough to permit discussion to be made at an appropriate depth, authors are encouraged to discuss the subject matter of a proposed review with the editor and to provide him/her a brief outline of the subject. Reviews should be critical, not enumerative, and should provide the reader with expert opinion regarding the relative merits of the various published approaches to the topic under review.

Methods.—The scientific validity of published methods is, of course, evaluated as part of the peer-review process. However, unless otherwise stated, methods published in contributed papers in the Journal have not been adopted by AOAC INTERNATIONAL and are not AOAC Official MethodsSM.

Manuscripts.—For information on preparing a manuscript, consult Instructions to Authors at http://www.aoac.org/pubs/instauth.pdf.

Submit your manuscript using http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/aoac_jaoac. Papers will NOT be accepted through mail or fax.

Reprints.—One free reprint will be provided to the lead or corresponding author following publication. This reprint is for personal use only and may not be posted online. Authors may order additional reprints of articles when they return typeset proofs. An order form and schedule of rates is included with each author proof. Readers who wish to obtain individual reprints should contact authors directly.

Responsibility.—AOAC INTERNATIONAL and the Editors assume no responsibility for statements and opinions expressed by authors of manuscripts published in the Journal.
